

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

Last week we were talking about children respecting their parents. How do parents respect their children?

A) Children are parents' property and they do not have to respect them.

B) Parents respect children when they buy them every year the latest cellphone.

C) God entrusted children to parents so that they might be steady, righteous examples for those children, that they might love and respect them and do everything possible so that their children can develop physically and spiritually. [CCC 2221-2231] Children are a gift from God and not the property of the parents. Before they are their parents' children, they are God's children. The primary duty of parents is to present to their children the Good News and to communicate the Christian faith to them.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

My question for today is How should a family live its faith together?

A) A Christian family should be like a small corporation. Every member of the family has to fit to the system and has his/her job to do.

B) A Christian family should be a miniature church. All Christian family members are invited to strengthen one another in their zeal for God. They should pray for and with each other and collaborate in works of charity.

C) The Church doesn't want to talk about that. She leaves this for the government to determine.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

My question for today is How should a family live its faith together?

- A) A Christian family should be like a small corporation. Every member of the family has to fit into the system and has his/her job to do.
- B) A Christian family should be a miniature church. All Christian family members are invited to strengthen one another in their zeal for God. They should pray for and with each other and collaborate in works of charity.
- C) The Church doesn't want to talk about that. She leaves this for the government to determine.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

Last week we were talking about children respecting their parents. How do parents respect their children?

- A) Children are parents' property and they do not have to respect them.
- B) Parents respect children when they buy them every year the latest cellphone.
- C) God entrusted children to parents so that they might be steady, righteous examples for those children, that they might love and respect them and do everything possible so that their children can develop physically and spiritually. [CCC 2221-2231] Children are a gift from God and not the property of the parents. Before they are their parents' children, they are God's children. The primary duty of parents is to present to their children the Good News and to communicate the Christian faith to them.