

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

Recently a lot of words were said about human life. Could you tell me please: Why is it not permissible to take one's own life or the lives of others?

- A) We are the owners of our lives. Nobody, including God, has a right to say to us what we can or can not do with it.
- B) The Church doesn't know. We do not have any commandment talking about human life.
- C) God alone is Lord over life and death. Except in the case of legitimate self-defence of oneself or another, no one may kill another human being.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

My question is simply: When must we refuse to obey the State?

- A) We are obligated by the Bible to obey the State regardless of the Church's point of view.
- B) No one may follow orders from the State that violates God's laws. (CCC 2242-2246, 2256-2257) It was Peter who called us to practice only a relative obedience toward the State when he said, "We must obey God rather than man" (Acts 5:29). If a State should establish laws and procedures that are racist, sexist, or destructive of human life, a Christian is obligated in conscience to refuse to obey, to refrain from participation, and offer resistance.
- C) We do not have to follow any State's law.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

My question is simply: When must we refuse to obey the State?

A) We are obligated by the Bible to obey the State regardless of the Church's point of view.

B) No one may follow orders from the State that violates God's laws. (CCC 2242-2246, 2256-2257) It was Peter who called us to practice only a relative obedience toward the State when he said, "We must obey God rather than man" (Acts 5:29). If a State should establish laws and procedures that are racist, sexist, or destructive of human life, a Christian is obligated in conscience to refuse to obey, to refrain from participation, and offer resistance.

C) We do not have to follow any State's law.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

Recently a lot of words were said about human life. Could you tell me please: Why is it not permissible to take one's own life or the lives of others?

A) We are the owners of our lives. Nobody, including God, has a right to say to us what we can or can not do with it.

B) The Church doesn't know. We do not have any commandment talking about human life.

C) God alone is Lord over life and death. Except in the case of legitimate self-defence of oneself or another, no one may kill another human being.