

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

Once this question came to me. Why is God more important than the family?
What does the church say about this issue?

A) It is much more superior to have a relationship between parents and children than a person and God.

B) The church doesn't want to talk about it.

C) Without a relationship a person cannot live. Man's most important relationship is the one he has with God. This has priority over all human relationships, even family relationships.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

My question for today is How should a family live its faith together?

A) A Christian family should be like a small corporation. Every member of the family has to fit into the system and has his/her job to do.

B) A Christian family should be a miniature church. All Christian family members are invited to strengthen one another in their zeal for God. They should pray for and with each other and collaborate in works of charity. (CCC 2226-2227) Parents stand in for their children with their own faith, have them baptized, and serve as their models of faith. That means that parents should make it possible for their children to experience how vulnerable and beneficial it is to live in the familiar presence of the loving God. At some time, however, the parents, will learn from their children's faith and hear how God speaks through them, because the faith of young people is often accompanied by greater devotion and generosity and "because the Lord often reveals to a younger person what is better" (St. Benedict of Nursia, Rule, cap. 3,3).

C) The Church doesn't want to talk about that. She leaves this for the government to determine.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

My question for today is How should a family live its faith together?

A) A Christian family should be like a small corporation. Every member of the family has to fit into the system and has his/her job to do.

B) A Christian family should be a miniature church. All Christian family members are invited to strengthen one another in their zeal for God. They should pray for and with each other and collaborate in works of charity. (CCC 2226-2227) Parents stand in for their children with their own faith, have them baptized, and serve as their models of faith. That means that parents should make it possible for their children to experience how vulnerable and beneficial it is to live in the familiar presence of the loving God. At some time, however, the parents, will learn from their children's faith and hear how God speaks through them, because the faith of young people is often accompanied by greater devotion and generosity and "because the Lord often reveals to a younger person what is better" (St. Benedict of Nursia, Rule, cap. 3,3).

C) The Church doesn't want to talk about that. She leaves this for the government to determine.

How well do you know the Catholic faith? Well, let's find out..."

Once this question came to me. Why is God more important than the family?
What does the church say about this issue?

A) It is much more superior to have a relationship between parents and children than a person and God.

B) The church doesn't want to talk about it.

C) Without a relationship a person cannot live. Man's most important relationship is the one he has with God. This has priority over all human relationships, even family relationships.